Marion County Teachers' Association.

SILVERTON, Dec. 31, 1866.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

The past week has been one of unusual interest to the people of this place and vicinity. The Marion County Teachers' Association was in session here on the 26th, 27th and 28th inst. Its sessions were regularly attended by large and attentive audiences, including friends of education from a distance of more than twenty miles. The lectures and discussions embraced school government, and all the branches required to be taught in our common schools, as well as algebra, geometry and surveying. The intelligence, learning, ingenious research, wit and occasional outbursts of oratory, displayed by many of the members were in the highest degree entertaining and instructive; but the predominant feature of the session was the discussion and adoption of the report of a special committee appointed on the suggestion of the Superintendent, at the preceding semi-annual session. The leading feature of said report was the election, by the Association, of an Advisory Board of five practical and experienced teachers, to co-operate with the Superintendent in establishing and conducting a proper method of examining applicants, and for the accomplishment of other objects therein specified.

It seemed from the statements of the chairman of the committee, that the plan presented had been well considered and was fully endorsed by most of the members of the Association—so much so, indeed, that it only met with three opposing votes, and two of those did not seem to be based upon any very serious objection; but the third was magnificently terrific in his display of legal acumen and Demosthenian eloquence, reminding one somewhat of the story of the fellow who became so happy that his "phelinks" gushed forth in a climax as follows: "Insignificant, ferocious and insolent G—d!" The young man certainly showed "spunk," for it would be difficult to tell how many times he emphatically informed the Association that the whole thing was illegal, and would be condemned by the people, and that he would never appear before said Board. The friends of the measure received and withstood his assaults with that calm, dignified and forbearing deportment, which is ever the result of superior convictions of duty and right. As to the illegality of the measure, it was argued that it was only advisory, and certainly the law would not deny the Superintendent the privilege of taking counsel as to the best method of performing his official duties; that it in no way interfered with those teachers who do not possess sufficient public spirit to place themselves in sympathy and concert with the better class of educators, unless it be to awaken public sentiment as to their unworthiness to each; and as to its being condemned by the people, it was replied that its object was to improve the teachers and schools of the country, without any additional expense to the people, and that it would be a strange infatuation, indeed, that would lead the people to condemn a measure which was designed as a free gift to themselves and their children; and as to the said gentleman refusing to appear before said Board, your correspondent imagined what might have been well suggested, that the gnat on the horn of the ox did not very "muchly" disturb the complacency of the bovine.

In compliance with the second resolution of the aforesaid report, said Advisory Board and the Superintendent, purpose to hold regular examinations in the city of Salem on the last Saturdays of March, June, September and December, which meetings the teachers belonging to the Association propose to attend in a body, and to make them, in addition to the examination of applicants, occasions of mutual improvement and enjoyment. The gentlemen chosen to compose the Board for the past year, are Professors Thomas H. Crawford, Salem; J. P. Hunt, Silverton; T. S. Leonard, Belpassi; Wm. Simpson, Waldo Hills; H. B. Lane, Howell Prairie; a singular manifestation of discretion and good sense on the part of the Association.

Several of the teachers of the county have already expressed their determination to appear before said Board at its first regular meeting, and submit to an examination for the purpose of having their certificates confirmed or rejected. Among those who had the good fortune to hear the matter thoroughly discussed, there seems to be in favor of the movement even a greater unanimity of sentiment, than was manifested by the Association. The friends of the measure do not propose to attempt any very sudden or rapid change in the educational matters of the county, but to progress as circumstances will sustain the movement, leaving to such teachers who prefer lagging behind, the privilege of private examinations under such form as the Superintendent may think proper to adopt, together with such estimate as the enlightened public sentiment of the country may allow to men who fail to keep step with the progressive spirit of the age.

The Marion County Teacher's Association has already produced a happy change in the merits of our teachers, but the friends of education present at the recent session, seem to think that teachers of old Marion have now taken a position, compared with which all their former efforts sink into insignificance. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, all seemed to enjoy themselves well and to appreciate the good work accomplished, and many were the mutual regrets interchanged among friends when the hour for parting came. None could fail to observe the apparent good will and courtesy existing among the teachers, and especially between the teachers and our worthy and popular Superintendent, Professor J. L. Powell. CITIZEN.

The following brief article from the Petersburg (Va.) Express, doubtless expresses the honest sentiments of the greater part of the leading spirits of the rebellion. There ought to be no question anywhere among whole-hearted, or even half-hearted loyalists as to the propriety and safety of admitting such men to a participation in the management of the Government:

> "The United States Government commenced its actual existence in 1783, and it was extinguished in 1861."
>
> The above extract from unwritten, but inevitable history, furnishes us with a text for one brief article.
> We do not know, nor do we care, into what dangers we plunge when we declare, that as the result of all the reflections we have made, we have arrived at the conclusion that the United States Government is the most stupendous and unprincipled humbug on the globe. Had the Confederate government lived there would have been one respectable government on the Western hemisphere. It does not live. The consequence of its non-existence is simply the non-existence of the material and substantial part of the old Government of the United States. The greenbacks of the present concern are absolutely and unequivocally worthless. The United States Government is to-day bankrupt. It cannot redeem one-tenth of its obligations, and never will. It is proper for us to appreciate our circumstances. We may for some years believe we have a Government. But the harsh arbitrament of truth will soon convince the most abject Unionists among us that we live not only under an unstable Government, but that it was a pity that the Government of Jefferson Davis did not succeed. Mexico is far better off to-day than are the United States.

EXODUS FROM MISSOURI, ETC.—A Copperhead exodus seems to have ensued upon the Radical triumph in Missouri. Says the Fort Smith (Ark.) New Era:

> A gentleman living on the Texas road informs us that for weeks past the travel southward into Texas has been unprecedented. The movers are principally from Missouri, with representatives from Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, and even Minnesota, and consist of conservatives, despairing of ever getting the upper hand of the terrible radicals in their respective States. Owing to the presence of the cholera in town, these movers don't pass through it, but prefer to give it a wide berth. Our informant says he counted thirty-nine wagons, one evening last week, of these movers, near his house, and the men were very bitter in their expressions against the turn things had taken in these late days. Perhaps they will get even more disgusted ere long, and will have to move a "little further" toward the warm region.

Miscellaneous Items.

Leonard, Copperhead candidate for Treasurer in Maryland (the only State officer chosen) has 12,982 majority.

The Richmond Whig laments the increase of delirium tremens, and says it is less from the quantity than the quality of the liquor.

One of the passes by which the Pacific Railroad is to cross the Rocky Mountains is about eleven thousand feet above the sea level.

Lieut. Frank Browwell, United States army, (Colonel Ellsworth's avenger,) has recovered his health and returned to duty in Minnesota.

Attention is called to the mournful fact that of the passengers on the illfated Evening Star, not a woman was saved, though sixteen men came off in boats.

Caroline S. Brower, a sewing woman of New York, has just recovered a verdict for $1,000 from Chas. E. Fleming, a young merchant, for saying, "Cad, I want to make a wife of you," and neglecting to do so.

Lately in Montana, a couple of Copperheads and a furious woman, assaulted a Radical editor in his office. The brave fellow set to and whaled all three of them, after which a Copperhead Justice fined him $20 for assault and battery.

X. has been reading German. At his boarding-house, the other morning, he asked the landlady's daughter, "Did you ever see a picture of the devil in Auerbach's cellar?" "What do you mean?" replied the startled dear, "there is no devil in our back cellar!"

Memphis must be a cheerful place of residence. A newspaper of that city says: "Night after night affrays occur; men are shot within a few yards of our office; bullets are fired into windows; and its 'D—n you!' click! bang! 'I'm shot!' nightly from one end of the city to the other.

Miss Clara Barton delivered an address before a large audience in Worcester, Massachusetts, the other day, detailing her army and hospital experience. She said that at the battle of Antietam her sleeve was pierced by a bullet which instantly killed the man whose wounds she was staunching.

A Virginia paper says that as General Wise was concluding his eloquent allusions to the future greatness and destiny of Virginia, at Winchester, a large bald eagle came sailing from the North, circled near the earth over the crowd, and then repluming his wings, departed in a southerly direction.

Game is unusually plenty all over the country, and a Southern paper ascribes it to the absence, in the army for four years of those fond of gunning. Large numbers of deer are found in Southern forests, particularly those of Virginia, while an abundance of smaller game is found in the Northern States.

One wagon of a powder train, containing 5,000 pounds of powder, blew up near Green River, Utah, on the 12th of October. A hub was the largest piece of wood found after the explosion, and three of the five yoke of oxen attached were torn into small bits, and only one foot, a joint of a finger and a piece of the skull of the driver remained.

Some of the Alabama papers have been objecting to the Governor's proclamation of a Thanksgiving day, on the ground that he is thus conforming to a Puritan or Yankee custom. The Mobile Register sympathizes with the objection, but finds that "Thanksgiving Day" is not of Puritan origin, but merely of Puritan adoption." It therefore sustains the action of the Governor.

The Memphis Avalanche contains a letter from Joseph Barbierre, in which he states that the first vessel direct from Marseilles to Memphis will reach the latter port this season, and that five others will immediately follow, thus establishing a regular line of packets between the Mediterranean seaports, through Marseilles, and the valley of the Mississippi to Memphis.

The Meadville (Penn.) Republican denies the statement that there is but one soldier of the Revolution living, and says that there is in Sandusky, Cattaraugus county, New York, an old Revolutionary soldier, Matthias Bakeman by name, who draws a pension from government. He was born in 1755, and is therefore 111 years old. His wife who was one year younger than himself, died about three years ago; and his daughter, fourscore years and more, keeps house for him. The old man enjoys remarkable good health for one of such advanced years, and walks to the village, half a mile from his residence, every two or three days. On each Fourth of July he takes his old fowling-piece, and goes out into the fields, where he blazes away a salute in honor of Independence Day.

Three-fourths of how many States?

The New York Herald argues strongly against the theory of the President and Secretary of State that a constitutional amendment can only become valid by the ratification of twenty-seven States. It contends that the ten unrestored States "are now really in the condition of unorganized territories;" and that an amendment requires only the ratification of three-fourths of the twenty-six States now acting in the Union. In a recent article it refers to Mr. Seward's certificate of the adoption of the Anti-Slavery Amendment, and then proceeds:—

> Thus, from the Executive Department, the doctrine was officially promulgated that the insurgent States, in accepting the President's conditions of reconstruction, were restored to their voices in the Government. But, by the Constitution, and as pleaded by the President himself in the outset to several of his provisional Governors, all his proceedings in the way of Southern reconstruction and restoration were only provisional, and were subject to approval or rejection by Congress. We see that the President had shifted his ground with this aforesaid proclamation from the State department; but this did not change the fact that unless accepted by Congress, all his proceedings and proclamations in this business must go for nothing. That proclamation, nevertheless, so far established the idea, that three-fourths of all the States, inside and outside, are necessary to effect a ratification of a constitutional amendment, as to lead to endless embarrassment and stultifications in regard to the status of the outside States.
> It was, perhaps, as much as Congress could do at the last session to avoid committing itself to the ratification theory of the Executive; but now the two Houses have the authority from the people of the loyal States to take decisive grounds against it. The law and the logic of the matter may be briefly stated. As the outside States were disabled by a regular rebellion, in which they cut themselves loose from the Government and combined in arms to overthrow it, they cannot be reinstated except by Congress, and are now really in the condition of unorganized Territories, not having even the right to vote in the national councils which is possessed by Montana or Utah. Yet, again, as the National Government as now represented by the constitutional quorum in both Houses of Congress is valid to all intents and purposes, the States thus represented and thus making laws for the whole Union, we repeat, are competent to change the organic law of the Union itself. In a word, the States represented in the Government are, in law, the United States. Otherwise, all our Federal legislation of the last five years is null and void.
>
> Divested of petty technicalities, quirks and quibbles, it is thus apparent that three-fourths of the States now represented in Congress are competent to make the pending constitutional amendment part and parcel of the Constitution, the supreme alike to the outside and the inside States and Territories. This is the conclusion which, we understand, will be acted upon by Congress. When three-fourths, or twenty of the twenty-six States now represented in Congress, shall have ratified the amendment, the Secretary of State will be required, by an act of Congress, if necessary, to proclaim the ratification complete. Then, while the ratification may be held as the condition of the Southern restoration, the amendment consummated will still be binding upon them as the supreme law of the land, and Congress may enforce it from Virginia to Texas by "appropriate legislation," as in the Territories.
>
> This is the solution which awaits the excluded States. It is a solution perfectly consistent with the rights and powers assumed by the loyal States in suppressing the rebellion of the late so-called Confederate States, and with all the legislation of Congress since the first bombardment of Fort Sumter.

Items about the California Floods.

The Grass Valley Union of December 22d says:

The Chinamen who annually mine on Wolf creek have been in the habit of throwing their waste dirt in the natural course of the stream, and the water being low in the summer, this continual deposit of dirt formed an insurmountable barrier to the natural flow of the stream, and left the current no alternative but to cut a route in some other direction, which it did on Thursday last, the water rushing down with such force as to cut out about forty feet of an excavation east of the bridge. Through this newly formed path the water now courses, turning the channel of the creek entirely from the route that had been marked out for it, and leaving the avenue through which Wolf creek once flowed in all its pride and glory, as dry as Swift's last joke. The reader perhaps remembers the reply of the Indian whom Mose Kora met recently in San Francisco. Mose accosted him with, "Jim, ain't you lost?" "No," he replied, "Indian no lost, Indian here; wigwam lost." This is precisely the position of Whiting's bridge—the bridge ain't moved any, it just as firm as ever; but Wolf creek has moved away from it; hence, if we take the bridge for Jim and the creek for the wigwam, our creek occupies precisely the position the Indian did. But Brunstetter's barn is in a worse position than either.

A gentleman from Cacheville says that at that place, between six o'clock P. M. Tuesday, and eight o'clock A. M. Wednesday, Cache creek rose six feet. On Wednesday, between eight o'clock A. M. and six o'clock P. M., it rose fifteen feet more, and by ten o'clock P. M. another four feet, when it became stationary, and during the night and next morning fell about six feet. On Thursday rain is not the word to designate the pouring down of heaven's waters, and at seven o'clock A. M. Friday the creek was higher than in 1861-2, and Judge Hutton and most of the old inhabitants concur in the opinion that it was as high, if not a little higher, than in 1852.

The Red Bluff Independent of Dec. 19th has the following in regard to high water there:

Last Sunday morning the river was "up and booming," having risen six feet during the previous night. The pontoon bridge was torn up by the huge masses of driftwood, but most of the loose lumber was recovered. Two of the pontoons floated down the current, and were recovered on Monday by Howard Blackidge and James McTurk, who moored them to a tree near the mouth of Antelope creek. The steamboat landing is at the rear of Cutter's mill for the present, the platform at the bar being entirely submerged. From that time it became more violent, and on Monday night the rain had become a deluge, the wind a simoom, and the river an angry sea. Tuesday night was the wildest one we ever saw. The gale blew down signs and tore up roofs, while the rain fell in torrents. A portion of the brick parapet of the Red Bluff Hotel became loose, but was secured without damage. The front of the Templars' Hall was blown off. William B. Schroeder's house, on Washington street, was blown eighteen inches off its foundation.

The river is but eight inches below the mark of 1862 as we go to press. All communication is cut off, above and below; so we are in total ignorance of how matters stand at Sacramento. Captain E. G. Reed's house, on the east bank of the river, had about three inches of water on the main floor. The ancient mariner launched his skiff and brought his wife and children to town in safety, after a short but perilous trip.

Rumors from Washington.

Some very interesting intelligence has reached us in the last day or two, direct from the East, and as the telegraph line is down, so lies could be sent. We are, therefore, expected to place implicit confidence in the reports. On receipt of the soul-stirring news, the editor of this paper was so overcome with joy that he rushed furiously up to John Cody's, took three toms and six jerrys, down to George Merritt's and drank a lot of egg-nog, which that gentleman had concocted for his own use, then sped sanctumward and went to writing comments upon the following astonishing but most beautiful news:

Firstly—The profound young lawyer (one of the boys) Hon. George Ainslie, succeeds Judge McBride as Chief Justice of Idaho! In this appointment, President Johnson has made a hit; he has hit the bench a blow that will teach it who is boss. The promotion of this young jurist will be of great encouragement to the boys in the lower house. It will prove a tower of strength, a beacon-light of hope to those who use profane language in their speeches and have their regular jug tucked away under their desk.

Secondly—Mr. May, the legal friend of many of our principal operators in bogus dust, takes Judge Cummin's place. This is bully! we want the right man in the right place, we want a man in that district for Judge who has some knowledge of spelter, who knows how to make gold out of silver, who will truly be a judge of dust; and who if we were sent up before him on an accusation of alloying the precious metals, would acquit us forthwith. The appointment of May is an event in the annals of history second to none which has happened since the first Christmas eve, a period of over eighteen centuries.

Thirdly—A. P. Turner takes Jim Pinney on his thumb-nail and lifts him out of sight. We reserve our comments on this appointment until we can get another egg nog. Our nerves need calming before we can do justice to so great a national topic.

Fourthly—Murphy, the easy-cheeked, over cheerful and safe friend, Murphy, (not May's friend, the Captain), the accomplished Fenian Centre—John M., the lovely—the fixed star of this generation—the ever beautiful Murphy, succeeds our friend from Yamhill; ("G—d d—n Yamhill!") and will forthwith relieve Gov. Ballard by quietly assuming the throne of this Government at Boise City, and for a long time to come will be a worse thorn in Reynolds' side than ever Gov. Lyon was. This is as it should be! This will cause ten thousand hearts to beat for joy! This knocks the character of Jacques, the mock Duke in the play, higher than a kite, is more sublime and amusing than Shakspeare or Tom Hood.

Fifthly—The climax is now to be capped. You haven't heard the good news yet. When you fully comprehend the purport of this paragraph, the chances are you'll go into spasms. Know then good people Mr. Fr[illegible] Frank bio, Cam[illegible] Campbell is to get the boys—C—C—City pos[illegible] post-office!

In conclusion—Mr. Holbrook is performing more for his constituents than any other man ever did for any other people. He has not annexed Canada to the United States yet, perhaps, nor freed poor down-trodden Ireland, but we live in hopes that he will; the very next breeze that is wafted from Washington may bring us the welcome news that he has. Until that breeze wafts we subside in anxious expectancy. Stevey, bring us another tom and jerry.—Idaho City Times.

AN INTERESTING SCRAP OF CONFEDERATE HISTORY.—Admiral Semmes, in reviewing in his paper, the Mobile Gazette, Mr. E. A. Pollard's history of the war, publishes the following order under which the Confederate fleet in James river was blown up on the night of the evacuation. It has never before been published:

CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA,
EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
RICHMOND (Virginia), April 2, 1865.
Rear Admiral Raphael Semmes, Commanding James River Squadron:

SIR: General Lee advises the Government to withdraw from the city, and the officers will leave this evening accordingly. I presume that Gen. Lee has advised you of this, and of his movements, and made suggestions as to the disposition to be made of your squadron. He withdraws upon his lines, towards Danville, this night, and unless otherwise directed by Gen. Lee, upon you is devolved the duty of destroying your ships this night, and with all the pieces under your command, joining General Lee. Confer with him, if practicable, before destroying them. Let your people be rationed, as far as possible, for the march, and armed and equipped for duty in the field.
Very resp'ly, your ob't serv't,
S. R. MALLORY, Sec'y of the Navy.

THURSDAY MORNING JANUARY 10 1867

A Small Scrap of History

The announcement comes that one of the consequences of the late decision of the Supreme Court touching the legality of trials by military commissions will probably be the release of the assassins of President Lincoln, now confined at the Dry Tortugas As it has become evident that the principals in the perpetration of this atrocious crime, though within the reach of justice will never be brought to punishment these prisoners who were but inferior agents employed to do the deed may about as well be granted that immunity from punishment which the greater criminals have obtained It is established beyond doubt that the assassination was incited from Richmond, and as those who concocted the scheme and procured the murder are to escape their hired instruments can with equal propriety be suffered to go free

Following next in order after the discharge of these prisoners will naturally begin proceedings against the members of the Military Commission which sent Mrs Surratt and others to the gallows But how will the President fare in this proceeding? The Military Commission was a thing of his creation He refused the parties a civil trial After they were condemned he denied Mrs Surratt's application for a writ of habeas corpus Such a writ was directed to General Hancock who had custody of the prisoners, and who referred the matter to the President for instructions In view of the decision of the Supreme Court and of the position Johnson now holds, the following may be suggestive

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, July 7, 1865

To Major General Hancock, Commander, etc

I, Andrew Johnson President of the United States do hereby declare that the writ of habeas corpus has been heretofore suspended in such cases as this, and I hereby especially suspend this writ, and direct that you proceed to execute the order heretofore given upon the return of the Military Commission, and you will give this order in return to this writ.

Ever since the execution of the assassins, certain parties have been charging that the act was nothing else than deliberate murder If this be true, can anybody, after reading the above order, doubt who the guilty person is?

Mr Johnson will not always be in power He may sometime be brought to a sense of the fact that this business of declaring military trials unconstitutional, and of proceeding at law against persons who have had connection with them may be productive of very uncomfortable consequences of a personal character

A Pretty Imbroglio.

The Copperhead presses of this State are just now engaged in a quarrel all round A majority of them don't like the leadership of the individual who has sold his services to Johnson for a petty appointment, and are not at all chary of their manifestations of displeasure The fight has grown to most formidable proportions Each of the papers engaged in it comes out with slashing leaders of two columns, as if intending by the very weight of words, to annihilate their adversaries But the contest is most unequal The "official organ" is the target for all the rest It has proved recreant to the Democratic faith, and must submit to the chastisement its conduct deserves True Democrats are justly indignant at its attempt to commit them to the full support of the dispenser of official patronage They don't want appointments, or at all events, they don't expect to get them Hence they stand by their party and hurl their thunders at the renegado who would lead their brethren off after strange gods These watchful sentinels on the outposts of Democracy are quick to detect the presence of an enemy, though he comes in the guise of a friend No Sinon can take their Troy while they are on guard Dissimulation cannot prevail over them The most skillful manipulator cannot "conservatise" them. They are not men to whom one creed is as good as another, provided that all creeds pay equally well

This Johnsonized organ has made a grand mistake. Oregon Democracy is not the sort of material the official appointee supposed. It is radical It is earnest Its ideas are precisely those which animated the late Confederacy It will adopt no half way measures It cannot be warped from this policy to that as in other States It regards what is commonly known as "conservatism" as a cheat. It never had any real sympathy with the Philadelphia Convention. It never had any regard for Johnson. Nor will it ever nominate for a considerable office any man who had the least sympathy with the Government in the late rebellion It will not tolerate anything but the most extreme doctrine In supposing the party might be made somewhat more conservative, Johnson's organ has made a grievous mistake, and grievously must it answer it, as it will find before its brethren of the press are done with the controversy

THE OTHER SIDE —We have quoted of late from such Democratic organs as the Chicago Times, Boston Post and Philadelphia Age to show that a portion of that party had become advocates of negro suffrage All these journals assert that the Democratic party has never taken the absurd position that suffrage should depend on color Here is something from the Cincinnati Enquirer, another Democratic organ, which declares that its party, by all its past, is committed against negro suffrage Whom shall we believe? Democracy is in a very unsettled state just now The Enquirer says

This mongrel bastard Republican party, which has sprung up like a ghoul in the night, and which has attained such rank growth will perish as quickly as it rose Founded upon imposture, upon error and deceit, upon fanatical prejudice and shortsightedness, and sustained by acts of atrocious crime it contains within itself the seeds of an early dissolution It is not for the Democracy to contract its disease and share its mistake in order to live Its principles are to be shunned as a warning and not adopted as an example The Democracy will not adopt the miserable heresy of negro suffrage of making this a mixed black and white government but it will ever maintain that as this is a white man's country, it should be ruled by white men pure and exclusive It wants no mongrel breed like those in Mexico and South America, to sit in its councils and shape its policy Against this doctrine it is committed by all its past, by all the force of history, by all the precepts of philosophy and the lessons of experience

Such leading journals as Harper's Weekly, the New York Post Albany Evening Journal Cincinnati Gazette Pittsburg Commercial and Chicago Tribune are speaking out in opposition to the proposition to abandon the Constitutional amendment for the amnesty and suffrage scheme It is very clear that to abandon the amendment and look for the adoption of any undeveloped plan, would be suicidal The moment we leave the amendment we are set back where we were a year ago without any fixed or definitive plan divided by innumerable propositions coming from one and another each of whom would press his peculiar views for adoption To adhere to the amendment is the only safe course and we are glad to observe that the loyal States are ratifying it instead of entertaining a thought of any other plan

A Michigan Democrat writing to the Chicago Times says I am heartily sick of fighting Republicans on the overlasting nigger That thing has been done so long that in this region we scarcely amount to a sufficient opposition in point of numbers to be respected by any one" The truth is the fight on the "everlasting nigger" hasn't been profitable to the Democracy So this Michigan Democrat wants to get rid of the whole trouble by granting suffrage to the negro

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

[FROM OUR [illegible] CORRESPONDENT]

WASHINGTON, [illegible] 186[illegible]

The last week has been a lively one here as far as rumors and gossip generally are concerned Early in the week [illegible] the Treasurer Spinner was calling upon the National Banks for money and perhaps a [illegible] than [illegible] this was [illegible] the New York [illegible] Spinner had called on the banks for [illegible] millions of money [illegible] tales The next one was to the effect that Mr Chase [illegible] the President to communicate with the Radical leaders in Congress [illegible] could be arranged This ridiculous story was sent [illegible] bankers in New York and had its effect [illegible] market Other stories followed and the result was that on many stocks the fall was not less than ten per cent and [illegible] So much for the getting up a big scare sending lies over the wires to New York and taking advantage of a few favorable facts Somebody made a million or two [illegible] I see that the Evening Post places the figure higher saying that the losses of the week will foot up twenty millions!

There are too many people in Washington ready to participate in such a movement no matter what measures are necessary to render it successful—no matter how many lies must be told But I confess I have no sympathy with the persons who get bitten especially on a falling market The bears in gold and produce have had their own way for a long time and it is time for a more reasonable range of prices

The money panic is one of the excitements of the week The French Mexican question is another Two or three Cabinet meetings were held with Gen Grant present at the last upon the Mexican troubles Louis Napoleon agreed last spring that he would move away the first instalment of his troops in November of this year The month has nearly closed and he has not recalled a man Worse than that he has given notice that he don't see how he can move any away before next spring Here is a dilemma Mr Seward is willing to bluster but does not want to fight Gen Grant has a mortal aversion to bluster but would just as soon fight as not He would give Louis Napoleon thirty days to get out of Mexico and then kick out any French soldiers remaining But Seward wants to talk big and threateningly (as need be) through long dispatches and then back down or up according to circumstances This is the difference between the men The President inclines to General Grant's policy but he does not like Grant so well as he does Seward and for that reason that Grant does not like the President's policy so well as Mr Seward does It is said that the report of the last Cabinet meeting, was that dispatches have been hurried off to France and to Mexico It is said that the tone of the dispatch to France is belligerent but having Seward to counterbalance it He blusters sometimes but never where it is dangerous

The Chronicle (Forney's paper) is urging upon Congress the duty of providing for the meeting of the next Congress on the 4th day of next March This seems to be the way the current sets just now but there is no telling how Congress may view it The argument in support of the power of the existing Congress to fix the day of meeting of its successor is irresistible In fact it was done in 1797 1799 and 1813 The facts respecting the action of Congress in 1813 are stated as follows

"On the [illegible] th of February 181[illegible] Congress passed an act to alter the time for the next meeting of Congress which it was provided that [illegible] next meeting of Congress shall be on the [illegible] May [illegible] This was during the second war with Great Britain and the emergency was such as impelled the Congress to take into its own hands the care of the public welfare and to call together the next succeeding Congress at a period at least six months earlier than that at which it would have been convened under the general provision of the Constitution

It is simply a question of propriety If Congress considers it desirable to call its successor into active existence early in the spring it can do so and it ought not to hesitate It is asking a good deal to allow the President from the 5th of March to the 5th day of December and as Congress is a restraint upon him to a certain extent it may be well to provide for an early session of the next Congress to sit till June or July The main argument against it is the selfishness of members They get their pay of $5 000 a year just the same whether they stay here or not and anybody who has spent a summer in Washington knows that it is a great trial to anybody coming from the North or Northwest Members hate to stay here any longer than they are compelled to and therefore it will be an uphill business trying to show the majority that it is their duty to remain here next summer Sumner and other able Radicals in the Senate will urgently urge it and Stevens in the House with many Radicals there will take similar ground But very much depends upon the conduct of the President this winter If he is courteous this proposition will fail if he is pugnacious and belligerent it will probably be adopted

I have many inquiries respecting the President's private character and I am uncertain whether it is a subject that we may write about Some of our public men who are as true as steel to their political duties have private characters which will not bear inspection so that if I were to save Mr Johnson it [illegible] proves no more against him than the same statement would against certain Republican members of Congress [illegible] must be answered I shall say that Andy Johnson was far from being a pure man He [illegible] everything good and I have heard it said that it is one of his favorite remarks that the only church that has his respect is the Catholic church Its conservatism appeals to his sympathies" If he is a pure man I cannot understand why so many bad women are always found in the halls of the White House" Why do so many of them secure interviews with the President?

Again—does Mr Johnson get drunk? We all know what he did on inauguration day and I have never seen one of his friends who pretended for a moment that he has practised total abstinence since It is said that he drinks but with great care I presume that he rarely gets drunk —perhaps never—but it is constantly rumored that he drinks enough to affect his nervous system so that he is terribly cross in his family and even among his political friends occasionally He went to Baltimore last week and came home sick Some of the papers said he had a chill but people who knew him asked "Does bad whisky produce chills?"

But this personal gossip on such a subject is hardly pardonable I thought that I would give you a little more much as I have recently touched upon the subject

The impeachment question is losing interest rapidly There is no prospect that any movement in that direction will be made unless the President shall act far differently from what is now expected He denies that he ever had a thought of refusing recognition to Congress and of trying to force the members from the reconstructed States into it All that he will do (so say some of his most intimate associates) is to use the influence of his position to carry out his reconstruction plans He will also try to serve the South through the use of his veto Some measures will pass over the veto but he hopes to have power enough on most bills to defeat them if he is so disposed by a veto This is a fact Take for instance a tariff bill If Congress sees fit to pass a radical tariff bill the President will veto it and it cannot be passed over the veto for a class of Western Republicans are fiercely opposed to any increase in the present scale of duties So on other questions which make [illegible] up for settlement Whenever there is a split in Republican ranks the President's veto will be [illegible]

It is better for the country that it is so On any question all [illegible] to reconstruction the President [illegible] the [illegible] avail him [illegible] I suppose the President fully agrees with the Secretary of the Treasury [illegible] the interests of trade [illegible] well to [illegible]

[illegible] will retain power [illegible] the North has spewed the party out of its mouth

PORTLAND DIRECTORY FOR 1867.—We have received from Messrs. McCormick & Bushwiler, a copy of the "Portland Directory for 1867"—a book of 145 pages, containing, besides the usual directory of business and residences, a large amount of useful statistics, tables, the city charter, ordinances, etc., etc. Something of an idea of the value of the work, may be formed, by referring to the statistics published this morning, the greater part of which we have condensed from it. It is accompanied by a lithographed map of the city. The "Directory" is decidedly an improvement on those of former years and, we think, will be properly appreciated by the public. The printing was done by A. G. Walling & Co., and the binding by Cramer & Co., of this city.

A COLD WEATHER ITEM.—Notwithstanding the cold weather and the consequent rush to Barman Bros.' store for suits of winter clothing, they yet have enough on hand to supply the wants of everybody. While customers keep the goods going, going, going, Barman Bros. keep fresh stocks coming, coming, coming—thus preserving the equality of supply and demand.

ALWAYS READY.—"About four years ago," says Mrs. G. V. Coombs, of Easton, West Virginia, "I purchased a Willcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine. It has more than met my expectations. I have done the principal sewing for eighteen persons since that time, and a great deal for my neighbors. It is always ready—always in order. Have broken two needles in four years."

A child can operate a Grover & Baker Sewing Machine. It sews from two common spools, makes a stitch stronger than that made by hand, and its simplicity is marvelous in comparison to its capacity. The elegant embroidery which is now so popular is all executed by this celebrated sewing machine. WM. CURRAN & Co., agents, 102 Front street, Portland.

FROM IDAHO.

From the Owyhee Avalanche of the 29th inst., we obtain the following:

SHOENBAR MILL.

The Shoenbar mill did not make a formal start till Monday of this week. Upon invitation of Mr. Agnew, the bone and sinew of the concern, quite a number of the good people of Owyhee called to see it commence operations again; and from the best information we can accumulate, friendly and generous spirits hovered round and several encouraging songs were sung under their guidance. Everything in and around the mill looked business like. Teams were unloading more rock, and Mr. Agnew says that if the present grist fails to give a profitable return after a fair trial, he will persevere till he finds that which will. The depth of the snow is very unfavorable to sorting rock, as it should be done. The hope is shared by all hands that the mill will grind out many silver bricks and be the means of putting much money in the pockets of the proprietors.

SUICIDE.

John J. Lloyd committed suicide on last Monday evening. He was residing with James Evans, in Asby precinct, just above the Minear mill. Has no relations in Idaho, but we learn that he has in Newark, Ohio. The deceased was a native of Wales, as is Mr. Evans, with whom he came to the Pacific coast, and had been with him up to the time of his death. We learn by outside parties that Mr. Lloyd had at times expressed a disposition to take his own life, and the evidence before the Coroner shows that he entertained such a purpose.

BUSINESS.

Capt. Dale will accept our thanks for the following item—the scene of which is about eight miles this side of the Owyhee Ferry:

SHEEP RANCH, Dec. 26, 1866.

FRIEND DALE: We had the cattle all stolen last night. Got back eleven head. One of them is badly shot. It is the fault of the corporal. They got seventeen head. I have got four yoke back, and will go on in the morning.

M. C. BROWN.

Samuel P. Duzan, who has just come in from the desert on the railroad route, says there is plain signs of the recent passage of a band of Indians and stock from the direction of Stein's Mountain towards the upper Owyhee. The trail crossed the stage road this side of Antelope Springs, at the mouth of Ives' Canyon, and Mr. D. believes there must have been two hundred head of stock from the appearance of the trail, and that they have been taken by the Indians up on Rattlesnake creek or on branches of the Owyhee, for the purpose of going into winter quarters. Here might be a good chance to make a haul, and the weather is unusually favorable for a winter campaign.

DEATH OF UNCLE BEN PORTER.

Benjamin F. Porter died suddenly on Wednesday morning, 26th inst., at the new Idaho Hotel in this city. Deceased was a native of Connecticut, aged about fifty-six years. He followed the sea for some time in early life and subsequently settled in New Orleans, where he resided for many years prior to coming to California in 1849. Arriving on this coast, he engaged in packing and trading in stock until 1852 or '53, when he located a ranch in Scott's Valley, Siskiyou county, where he continued to reside until 1863 when, owing to the depreciation of property he became much reduced pecuniarily, and went to Washoe. Here his health failed him and he sought relief in San Francisco during the winter of 1863, and in the spring returned to Nevada. A year ago he came to Owyhee, but his system was too much shattered with heart disease to permit him to engage in business of any kind.

CHICO MAIL.

It is ever more pleasant and desirable to approve than disapprove—when the choice can be honestly made. On the 27th—Thursday of this week—we received our San Francisco exchanges, by the Chico mail, dating from Dec. 3d to the 8th. It has been so for weeks, and worse too, for not one-half of our papers come to hand at all. We are informed by reliable parties that a ton of mail matter was lying at Crooked creek—on the Chico route—a few days ago. This may be the cause of applying for a daily mail on that route, so that it can be carried to its destination in the course of a year or two. It would be a bully argument to use with the Postmaster General in favor of a daily mail—tri-weekly being inadequate.

IMPORTANCE OF HAVING DAVIS' PAIN KILLER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Wonderful Cure of the Rev. D. L. Brayton, Missionary in India, who was stung by a Scorpion.

Extract from his letter, published in the Baptist Missionary Magazine:

"For the first time since I have been in India, I have been stung by a scorpion. I went out this morning to my exercises, as usual, at early dawn, and having occasion to use an old box, on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion, which immediately resented the insult by thrusting its sting into the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which darted through the system is quite incredible; what an awful virulent pain their sting must contain! I FLEW TO MY BOTTLE OF DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, and found it to be true to its name; after a few moments' relief, I saturated a small piece of sponge, bound it on my hand, and went about by exercises, feeling no more particular inconvenience."

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

American "Flats" in Turkey—A Foolhardy Expedition

Reference has already been made to the silly expedition recently undertaken by a party of Americans (two men and a boy) who started from Smyrna to China overland A Constantinople letter of October 1 th to the Tribune tells what became of the expedition

They took with them no interpreter not even a servant, although neither of them knew a word of the language They simply provided themselves with defective maps and a small conversation book With two horses for the three and no money except American gold and greenbacks they started on their Quixotic expedition The boy ran away and came back to Smyrna the second day, but they returned for him and started again The company are now in Constantinople having met with just such experience as I supposed they would When about seven hours from Afiou kara hissar they were stopped by a party of Turks who demanded to know who they were etc The Americans could give no answer as their conversation book had not anticipated any such experience They only stood in stupid amazement, waiting to see what would turn up The Turks were evidently puzzled by these strange fish but finally concluded that they must be brigands or runaway Cretans or something of the sort, so they pitched upon them, took away their money and their arms and brought them in triumph to the nearest village They exhibited them there as robbers just caught and the whole town turned out to see the show The women pelted them with stones the children spat upon them and the men beat them unmercifully with clubs etc It was all in vain that the travelers threatened the Turks in the best of English, with the vengeance of Andrew Johnson When it came night they were bound with cords, and in this wretched plight kept twelve hours The poor fellows were really in a very critical position here Their insane expedition had ceased to be a joke It is really a wonder that these half savage Turks did not make an end of them, for they probably had no idea that they were respectable people who would ever be inquired after

The next day the Turks carried their prisoners to the nearest town Here the authorities attempted to examine them, but of course, could make nothing of them So they took off their ropes and put on chains instead That night was spent in this miserable condition Next day they were sent in heavy manacles to Afiou kara hissar where they were fortunate enough to find a traveling agent of the Imperial Ottoman bank, who could act as interpreter for them The moment their story was understood they were set at liberty, and the Governor of the place caused their captors to be arrested in turn Soldiers were sent to the village to search for their effects, but they only found $2 in money and a few articles of clothing The Americans borrowed money from the agent of the bank and came over to Broussa where the Turks were also sent by the Governor of Afiou-kara hissar

The whole party is now in Constantinople, and they demand the punishment of these Turks as well as the restitution of their property The American gold is worth nothing in the interior, because it is not known there It will be easy to recover this, but they say that the Turks, not appreciating the value of greenbacks, tore all these up together with certain bills of exchange on Tiflis

Our Minister has demanded the punishment of the Turks and the restitution of everything lost, either by the robbers or the inhabitants of the district where the robbery was committed

These Turks will undoubtedly be punished in some way and they deserve it The money, so far as it can be proved that any money was lost, will be paid by the Government and twice or three times this amount will be ground out of the innocent people of that vicinity. But really, the Americans, who claim to be correspondents of the New York Herald and Harper's Monthly, deserved some part of what they suffered as a punishment for their folly If they had not met with any such accident as this they would probably, have died on the road this winter long before they reached Tiflis Their names are Stanley Cook and Noe

Reports of Generals Sheridan and Sickles

The reports of Generals Sheridan and Sickles, sent in by General Grant, are extremely interesting as giving us a picture, of which we cannot doubt the accuracy, of the social condition of the South More instructive testimony as to the value of the protection which white courts extend to black men it would be impossible to have—or testimony more corroborative of the opinion we have all along expressed in these columns, that the exceptional character of the relations between the two races at the South renders of little value all rules drawn from the experience of most other countries in the work of reconstruction, The case of Jamaica seems to be the only one which throws much light on our path. We know what the history of white legislation there is. The new Governor declared, in a formal speech the other day, that the judicial organization of the island was such that justice was practically denied to all poor men, and that the recovery of wages, for instance, by legal process was practically impossible Very soon afterwards the grand jury ignored the bill against Ramsay, the notorious provost marshal, who took such a leading part in the hangings and floggings under Gov Eyre, and who, in one case, actually hanged a man for writhing under the lash! Finding a bill of indictment, it must be remembered, is not finding a man guilty It is simply saying that there is enough evidence against him to warrant a trial The judge laid down the law on the subject with such stringency, and the facts were so clear, that the finding of the bill against Ramsay seemed inevitable. But it was nevertheless ignored, almost with deliberation, as if for the purpose of showing the contempt of the white men of the island for law and public opinion in all cases in which blacks were concerned At the South we find that, according to Gen Sheridan, the trial of whites for offences against freedmen and Union men is a mere farce The legal form which the ferocious prejudice of the planter class takes had sometimes a touch of grim humor about it "Two soldiers were murdered in cold blood in Texas The grand jury ignored the bills against the murderers, but indicted Major Smith, of the Seventeenth Infantry, for "burglary," for breaking into a house in an attempt to arrest them. In South Carolina General Sickles's report shows that the recent legislative admission of the blacks to civil rights is merely words on paper Magistrates will not issue warrants against persons guilty of the robbery or murder of the colored people and Unionists, sheriffs will not arrest them, or, if arrested by the military, let them escape from custody, and juries will not convict them In fact, there is no security for life or limbs of persons obnoxious to the majority, except such as the scanty garrisons can afford We, who hold that the protection of the weak and obnoxious is the first duty of government, are therefore in favor of as many, and as strong, garrisons as may be necessary to render crime and lawlessness so terrible to the ruling class at the South that they will become only too glad to provide security for everybody themselves. So far from trusting any human being to their generosity, we would keep them dependent for everything on our generosity until they had learned the first lesson of civilized life.—The Nation

Ventilation of the National Capitol

In regard to this subject the Scientific American of December 1st, has the following

We are in possession of a document from the Department of the Interior, which is a report on the method of warming and ventilating the two chambers of the national legislative bodies with the offices and lobbies adjacent. Some complaint had been made that the air of the halls, particularly during the winter, was not entirely pure, and that headache and other annoyances were caused After a very lengthy and exhaustive series of experiments, it was found that the air furnished was deficient in moisture, a matter that can be easily remedied

The ventilation of the Capitol is altogether artificial The air is forced into the apartments through numerous apertures by immense fans driven by steam power The furnaces of the engines furnish the necessary heat for warming the air in winter by passing the columns of air in contact with stacks of pipes

There are four fan wheels employed one for each of the halls of Congress and one for the Committee rooms and passages in each wing The fan for the Senate Chamber is 14 feet in diameter, weighing 6 510 pounds, and driven by a 10 horse engine running from 30 to 60 revolutions per minute At the lowest rate this delivers into the Senate Chamber 30 000 cubic feet of air per minute, being 20 cubic feet per minute for each one of 1,500 persons The Hall of Representatives has a fan 16 feet in diameter weighing 9 050 pounds, and driven by an engine of 30 horse power This fan can be run up to 80 turns per minute delivering 100 000 cubic feet of air per minute equal to entirely filling the hall every five minutes In the winter one half this capacity is exercised

The other two fans for the Committee rooms offices and corridors are each 14 feet in diameter weighing over 5 000 pounds, and can be run to 60 revolutions, driven each by a 10 horse power engine

In summer the air which is delivered to the building is cooled and hydrated by coming in contact with water falling in a shower, similar to the means employed in low pressure engines for condensing steam The same principle or something similar will probably be adopted to moisten the air used in winter for the double purposes of heating and ventilating

"Spiced Vinegar —Here is a New Orleans story, told by one who saw the parties at the table

Last summer, while residing at New Orleans a youth who stood almost five feet eleven and three quarter inches in his stockings who hailed from somewhere up the Wabash was invited by a friend to dine at the same house where I was boarding This was the Hoosier's first visit away from home and he told his friend who was in the produce business and had purchased his cargo of corn, as they took their seats at table that he expected he would show him all the sights in town as he wanted to let the folks at home know about it The servant brought a plate of soup and observing a gentleman nearly opposite put considerable catsup in his dish our Hoosier pointed to a bottle of pepper-sauce and asked his neighbor what it was

'Spiced vinegar' was the reply 'Wal s'pose yer 'blige a feller by handin' it along' 'Certainly' was the answer

The Hoosier took the bottle and commenced dosing into his soup, but as the sauce did not flow very freely he took out the cork and at the same time observed to his friend 'Kinder close folks yer stoppin' with, to put such a plaguy little hole in that to prevent a feller takin much of the stuff I 'spose it comes high don't it?'

During the time he poured nearly a wine glass full into his soup and taking his spoon he dipped it full together with several peppers and put it into his mouth The next instant he spirted the contents of his spoon across the table into a French gentleman's bosom and bawled out

"Water! water! Snakes and wild cats, give me some water! I'm all a fire!"

"By gar sair" exclaimed the Frenchman in a rage jumping up from the table, "you have spoiled my shirt my vest sair Spoil everything sair By gar I shall see about this sair"

In the meantime the Hoosier had seized a pitcher containing water, and taken a tremendous draught Setting down the pitcher, he eyed the Frenchman for a moment and then yelled

'Dod blast yer old shirt! 'Spose I was goin' to burn my innards out for you or yer shirt?—yer mean cuss! Come down to the boat and I'll give you one of mine'

It was with much difficulty that the Hoosier's friend could allay the Frenchman's anger, and set matters straight again But ever after "Spiced Vinegar" was a by word, and sufficient to set a whole table in a roar

A Disappointed Damsel —About a week ago a gay wedding party assembled at one of the Catholic churches, was broken up by an unexpected denouement The usual questions had been propounded to the contracting parties by the officiating priest, affirmative responses were returned, and the ceremony was about to conclude The priest made the final demand, that if there was any person present who had any objection to the consummation of the union he could now come forward and 'show cause,' or "forever after hold his peace"

Upon this hint a young lady arose and stated that the would be bridegroom had given a promise of marriage to herself, and she held him to his contract and forbade the priest from tying the indissoluble knot that would unite him to another and deprive her of a husband Thus warned, the priest refused to proceed with the ceremony, and the unhappy couple left the church in a state of vexation better imagined than described

But they were not long in devising a means to overcome the difficulty They accordingly called on Justice Jecko, who made them man and wife in a very short time and sent them on their way rejoicing

The next act in the drama opens in a lawyer's office. The young lady who had been cheated out of a husband sought balm for a broken heart in a court of justice She laid her grievances before the man of law, and inquired if the statutes of Missouri in such a case made and provided, could afford her any relief The lawyer told her there was no law west of the Mississippi, (except in Utah) that could take a husband from a wife and give him to another, unless upon application for a divorce, and then good reasons must be assigned The heart of the young lady sank deep in her bosom and she was the picture of despair. Blackstone aroused her, however, by assuring her that although the law could not compel the man to marry her, it could bleed the perfidious lover and drain his purse pretty dry He, doubtless had the Carstang case in his eye but, as that terminated badly for both the lady and her lawyers, he said nothing about it

The next thing we hear is the filing of a petition in Judge Moody's Court by Miss Elizabeth Percell charging Mr Bruer B Haegasma, Consul for the Netherlands, with breach of promise of marriage, and claiming damage in the sum of $10,000.—St. Louis Democrat

A Tough Story —The Erie (Pa) Dispatch publishes the following

"About the strangest thing we ever heard of occurred here on last Friday, 2d October Mr Schoelhurtz, a well known German citizen who lives in a small frame house near the depot, went fishing to the lighthouse dock with a couple of friends Their luck did not seem to be very good, as but one black bass and a few perch were all that had been captured, and the interest in the sport naturally began to flag While Mr Schoelhurtz was examining his watch, a very fine gold one to which a black ribbon and seal were attached, his line being left carelessly in the water, a sudden heavy jerk that nearly took the fish pole from his hand, so startled him that in trying to grasp it with the other hand, in his excitement he somehow let go of his watch, which struck his knee and bounded off into the water, his line, (though a very strong one) parting at the same instant with a sudden snap Regrets, though naturally indulged in to some extent, were useless so the party continued fishing for a couple of hours after the accident, and then returned homewards with but a light string of fish, Mr Schoelhurtz's ill luck having followed him so persistently that he had actually caught nothing When nearly back to the starting point they were overtaken by a fishing boat, and being ashamed of exhibiting their 'catch' to their friends, as unlucky fishermen always are, they concluded to buy a few fish to add to those honestly caught, agreeing not to tell tales on one another as to the manner in which they were obtained—Mr Schoelhurtz purchasing an eight pounder black bass and three small ones As he was carrying the fish home he thought he saw something sticking in its gills, which on closer inspection proved to be a fish hook that very much resembled the one he had lost in the afternoon, and it was with a kind of savage joy that he anticipated the pleasure of eating the prime-cause of his ill luck, but strangest of all, upon cutting the fish open he found his watch, which had not even stopped ticking"

Abolitionists Everywhere —The Detroit, (Michigan) Tribune says

A prominent Democrat, residing on Beach street, in Flint, returning from the telegraph office on the night after the recent election met his wife at the door, who anxiously inquired the 'result of the election" "It has gone Black Republican by a larger majority than I ever dreamed of," was the reply of the disconsolate husband 'Well my dear' said the wife, 'I wish you would sell out and leave the place I do not wish for one to live among such a set of Abolitionists" "Well wife" responded the husband 'it would suit me well to act upon your suggestion and move out of the Radical nest but I would like to have you take the map and tell me where on earth we could go and mend the matter for I tell you the thing's just so in every place in the loyal States except New York City and there a man that is not a bruiser or a black leg don't stand as much show as a Democrat does here" Wife prepares for bed with a good sized flea in her ear, while the defeated and vanquished husband soothes his sorrow by a potation of too pure a quality for general party purposes

Bierstadt —Albert Bierstadt was married in Waterville, (N Y), on the 21st of November, to Rosalie Osborne, of New York The Tribune says

Bierstadt has just erected at Irvington a residence costing $50 000 and commanding one of the finest views of the Hudson It is really a studio with house attached The studio is 80 feet in length with walls 34 feet high galleries for art studies and lovely views from its windows Bierstadt's "Storm in the Rocky Mountains" goes to the Exposition He is now engaged upon a new piece with mountains plains and sunset glow entitled 'Emigrants Crossing the Plains' He has nearly completed a bird's eye view of the Yosemite Valley—larger than any of his previous pictures It is painted to fill an order given three years ago by LeGrand Lockwood of this city Bierstadt's Rocky Mountains was bought by Sir Morton Peto for $20 000 and it will require the artist four or five years to fill his present orders In his case at least art proves remunerative

'King Andy —The Mobile Tribune winds up an editorial as follows

How long O Lord! Our hope is in Thee with the Democratic party as the instrument That failing, give us the man with the sceptre in his hand'

An Ex Rebel Cabinet Member on Negro Suffrage —The following extract from a letter of Judge Reagan late rebel Postmaster General is a sign of progress in Southern sentiment We commend it to the notice of those who oppose the cause of equal justice on the ground that the South can never be reconciled thereto

"Now it becomes us to consider whether we can satisfy this demand and at the same time avoid the loss of our own rights and the dangers of universal suffrage I think this may be done by conferring the elective franchise on those of them who are possessed of sufficient intelligence to exercise it and by making the test which shall secure the standard of intelligence apply to such of the white race as shall be hereafter admitted to its exercise For a limitation which would only affect the negroes and a few whites of a less degree of intelligence according to the standard to vote would do no good toward securing the great ends we desire to attain I have not doubted since soon after our overthrow that we had sooner or later to decide between negro suffrage in this qualified form and universal negro suffrage And now I tell you that those who oppose negro suffrage in this qualified form elect by this act to force universal negro suffrage on the country and ought to be and will be held responsible by our people for it when it comes and they ought no longer to be allowed to shield themselves under pretended ignorance from the consequences of such political demagoguery And if this plan or some equivalent one be not adopted by our Legislature the day is not far distant when the people of this State will hold them else responsible for having refused to see and comprehend these facts and thereby forcing on this State the disfranchisement of the whites as well as universal suffrage"

John Bright —John Bright speaking in the Rotunda at Dublin, is thus described

He raised his fine leonine head and shoulders and looked gravely about him for some time Order was called for by a blast of a trumpet, and when silence was obtained he began to speak deliberately in a rather low tone of voice but withal distinctly so that his words were audible in the remotest parts of the room As to his address it was in a word magnificent It electrified the assembly Every few sentences, and sometimes each sentence of a whole series brought forth rapturous outbursts of approbation He told home truths, and the people recognized them he drew the moral of the facts and it was what had laid in the heart of every one of them The sympathy between the speaker and the audience was complete Taken bit by bit his speech was wonderfully able and effective taken as a whole its beauty and power are increased a hundred fold

We saw Jake nailing up a box the other day containing some articles which he intended sending by express From the nature of the contents we knew it was essential that the box should not be inverted on the passage So we ventured the suggestion to Jake to place the much abused 'This side up' etc conspicuously upon the cover A few days after we saw Jake Heard from your goods Jake? Did they get there safely? Every one broke!" replied Jake sullenly Lost the hull lot! hang the Express Company! Did you put on 'This side up' as we told you?" 'Yes and for fear they should'nt see it on the kiver, I put it on the bottom, too—confound em!

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus, absorbed into the system Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans
